

NECCD Conference Code of Conduct

I understand that by participating in the New England Council on Crime and Delinquency Annual Training Institute, I am agreeing to the following code of conduct:

- The NECCD Training Institute is a professional development conference. We ask that all attendees, presenters and guests represent themselves and their respective agencies with professionalism and show respect to those around them.
- Please do not be disruptive to speakers or presentations during any NECCD sessions or functions.
- Please use alcohol responsibly, no alcohol under age 21.
- No harassment, discrimination or threats of violence will be tolerated.
- Please be respectful of the rules of the hotel/venue and understand that you are subject to those rules and any venue imposed consequences. NECCD is not liable for venue policies and will not refund any registration fees or expenses due to venue rule violations/consequences.

Violations of the NECCD Conference Code of Conduct may result in:

- Verbal Request/Warning
- Expulsion from the session/function
- Event registration suspension
- Reporting conduct to sponsoring state entity/organization
- Reporting conduct to local law enforcement if applicable

NECCD will NOT refund registration or hotel fees due to Code of Conduct violations.
